The West Coast has been an innovative leader in housing trends for decades. Emanating from the West, the newest design trend is "Mountain Modern"- homes that are designed to take rustic, local materials representative of the environment & integrate them into the vast light filled spaces of a flowing floor plan. Here, overlooking the Hudson Valley, you have it! Carved into the side of the mountain and built to last the tests of time, this 4000 sq ft home sits high upon Woodstock's iconic Overlook Mountain and features endless views across the Hudson Valley to the Berkshires. This house has all the Mountain Modern textural components- the solidity & warmth of beautiful polished woods, slate & Mediterranean tile flooring-- all this enhance the large bank of floor to ceiling sky-filled windows in the great room. The room's interior is finished with simple clean & streamlined built-ins and a bold stone fireplace opposite the 45 foot deck with its "oh so relaxing" 6 person hot tub & a gas fired grill for cooking, the promise of an incredible connection with nature is guaranteed. The expansive deck is definitely the spot for wonderful warm weather living. In this home it is so easy to let the crazy world slip away! Whether large scale entertaining or a simple cozy meal is desired, the Cooks kitchen with its' huge island make meal preparation & presentation a delight. You'll find that the stainless steel cable interior railings add to the homes clean design. One of the very sweetest unseen elements of the house is the radiant heat flooring throughout, there is nothing like walking barefoot on warm floors when the snow is deep & cold!
